

This graph shows that numbers of laser scans of same stationary objects show little variation.

The plot after left operation. This will get rid of the NaN values. Then the data will be used to find the jump and detect the object.

